Indonesia

All taxes are levied at the central government level and regional level. The Directorate General of Taxes, under the Ministry of Finance, is the governing body for tax administration and collection in Indonesia.

Corporate Income Tax

Corporate Tax Rate

The current standard CIT rate is 22%, which can be reduced under certain conditions for public companies, small companies, etc.

Tax Year – Calendar year or fiscal year.

Basis of Taxation

Indonesian enterprises are taxed on taxable income generated in and outside Indonesia. However, offshore dividend income may be nontaxable if it is reinvested in Indonesia, with certain conditions.

Foreign enterprises with Indonesia-based permanent establishments should generally assume the same tax obligations as a resident taxpayer in addition to a branch profit tax.

Deemed profit margins are applied for certain businesses such as domestic/foreign shipping and airline operations, foreign oil and gas drilling operations, and foreign trade representative offices.

Tax facilities

Tax facilities include, among others, tax holiday up to 100%, tax allowance, tax facilities in Special Economic Zones/bonded zones/remote areas, import tax facilities, and tax facilities for foreign direct investment.

Tax holidays are to support pioneer industries which provide additional value and high externalities, offer new technologies, and have strategic value for the national economy.

Generally, proposals or applications for tax holidays and tax allowances must be submitted, assessed and approved.

Tax Treatment of Unutilized Tax Losses

Tax loss may be carried forward for up to 5 years and can be extended to 10 years in limited cases. Losses cannot be carried backward.

Tax Treatment of Dividends Received from Domestic Shareholdings

Dividends received from a domestic enterprise after such enterprise has paid corporate tax are nontaxable for corporate taxpayers. Individual taxpayers are subject to 10% final tax (self-assessed by the individual); however, a dividend may be nontaxable under certain circumstances if it is reinvested in Indonesia.

Dividends paid to nonresidents will be subject to 20% withholding tax, or the lower tax treaty rate.

Controlled Foreign Corporation “CFC” Rules

Certain income of a CFC is subject to deemed dividend rules with certain limitations.

Limits on Interest Deduction

The nondeductibility of interest is determined by commonly accepted methods, such as a loan for nonbusiness related purposes, debt-to-equity ratio is exceeded, debt to EBITDA, loan is placed as deposit in savings of which interest income is subject to final tax, or transfer pricing adjustment.

Tax Filing Deadlines

The annual corporate income tax return is submitted by the end of the fourth month after the end of the tax year. Payment should be prior to submission.

Monthly withholding tax should be paid by the 15th day of the following month and reported by the 20th.

Coretax System

Coretax is the integrated tax administration system developed to handle all tax administration matters digitally. Starting 2025, all payments and reporting should be done through the Coretax system.

Indonesia

Capital Gains Tax

Sales of a company's assets (other than land and building) may result in capital gains or losses. Capital gains are taxable; losses are deductible if the asset was used in operating the business. The standard CIT rates generally apply.

Capital gains from the sale of listed shares will be subject to final tax at 0.1%, plus 0.5% for founder shares, from the gross sale amount.

Value Added Tax

VAT applies to the import or delivery of most goods and services in Indonesia. The VAT rate was increased to 12% in 2025; however, the government implemented a policy so that the effective VAT rate remained at 11% for most goods and services. The export of most goods and certain exported services is subject to 0% VAT. A VAT exemption applies for food and drink served in hotels and restaurants, public services provided by the Government that cannot be provided by normal businesses, among others.

Small-medium sized enterprises whose revenue does not exceed IDR 4.8 billion are not required to be registered as a VATable business.

VAT calculation methods

- Typically, $\text{VAT payable} = \text{output VAT} - \text{input VAT}$
- A VATable business can credit input VAT (incurred on the purchase of VATable goods/services, use of offshore services or intangible assets, and import of VATable goods) and offset this against output VAT (charged to customers on the delivery of goods/services). Input VAT is creditable if reported within 3 months after the end of the period stated in the VAT invoice.
- If output VAT exceeds input VAT during a month, the difference is payable before the end of the month. A refund can be requested if input VAT exceeds output VAT, which triggers a VAT audit.

Tax filing deadlines

- VATable companies must report and settle their VAT obligations on a monthly basis. The VAT return for a particular month must be submitted by the end of the following month and any amount owed must be paid before the return is submitted.
- If business is conducted in more than one location, each location must be registered for VAT purposes. VAT centralization is allowed in certain situations.

Withholding Tax

Income tax is mainly collected through two types of withholding tax: final and nonfinal. Both types are collected by designated withholders and reported in the monthly tax return. Income subject to final tax is not subject to further income tax; income subject to nonfinal tax is subject to further tax at the normal tax rates, but the amount withheld can be credited against tax payable.

Income paid to resident taxpayers in the form of dividends, interest, royalties, and gifts (among others) is subject to withholding tax of 15%; income paid related to e.g., services and rental of assets other than land/building is subject to withholding tax of 2%.

Final tax is withheld at various rates based on the type of income, e.g., land/building rental (10%), gains from shares traded on the Indonesian stock exchange (0.1%, plus an additional 0.5% for founder shares), and construction work/services (1.75%–6%).

Payments to nonresidents in the form of e.g., dividends, interest, royalties, rent, and branch profit tax are subject to withholding tax of 20%. This rate can be reduced if the recipient resides in a country which has a tax treaty with Indonesia, in which case a valid certificate of domicile must be submitted by the nonresident income recipient.

Tax payment methods

Monthly withholding tax should be paid by the 15th day of the following month and reported by the 20th.

Indonesia

Transfer Pricing

The Income Tax Law defines related parties as:

- A direct or indirect equity participation of at least 25% of another taxpayer;
- Two or more taxpayers under common control, directly or indirectly; or
- Family relationships.

Transactions between related parties must be conducted on an arm's length basis. If the tax office believes the pricing is not arm's length, it can redetermine the amount of taxable income and deductions.

Transfer pricing disputes can be resolved through the domestic dispute resolution process or through the mutual agreement procedures (MAP) if the dispute involves a transaction with a related party in a tax treaty partner country. The parties can also pursue an advance pricing agreement (APA), which is valid for 5 years.

Compliance requirements and filings

- Companies which meet certain criteria must prepare transfer pricing documentation in the form of a local file, master file and country-by-country report. A price setting report may be useful as a supporting document to the local file.
- Local and master files must be provided for compliance monitoring or within 1 month of the tax office's request in an audit. A country-by-country report must be prepared if the consolidated gross turnover of the business group is at least IDR 11 trillion in the fiscal year preceding the reported fiscal year.

 - Resides in Indonesia;
 - Is present in Indonesia for more than 183 days in a 12-month period; or
 - Is present in Indonesia and intends to reside in Indonesia (as evidenced by various documents).
- Indonesia resident taxpayers are generally taxed on their worldwide income; nonresident taxpayers are taxed only on their Indonesia-sourced income. However, expatriate resident taxpayers who meet particular job types and specific skills can apply to be taxed only on their Indonesia-sourced income. If granted, this is valid for 4 years from when the expatriate becomes an Indonesia tax subject.

Tax rates

- 5 – 35% for residents; 20% for nonresidents.
- Final tax rates for severance payments are 5%–25%, if paid within 2 years.

- The individual must file an annual individual income tax return. The filing date and the settlement date (for a tax underpayment) is 31 March. However, the filing deadline can be extended by 2 months.

Payments to the Singapore branch of a non-resident business are not subject to withholding tax. However, the branch must include the income in its annual tax return.

Payments subject to withholding tax

Payments for software and payments for the use of or the right to use information and digitised goods will be characterised by rights-based approach which distinguishes between the transfer of a “copyright right” (which may be subject to withholding tax) and a “copyrighted article” (which is generally not subjected to withholding tax).

Unless specific conditions are met, a 5% surcharge will be imposed on any TP adjustment made by IRAS and is applicable regardless of whether additional tax is payable as a result of the adjustments and must be paid within one month from the issuance of the surcharge notice.

Compliance requirements and filings

- Taxpayers engaged in transactions with related parties are exempt from preparing and maintaining TP documentation if they meet the following two conditions:
 1. Annual gross revenue from trade or business for the basis period concerned does not exceed SGD 10 million; and
 2. They were not required to prepare TP documentation for the immediately preceding basis period.

Some more conditions and thresholds can be met to alleviate these administrative burden.

- There are various other transactions entitled to specific exemptions such as routine support services where a 5% mark-up is applied or certain types of transactions not exceeding SGD 15 million.
- If not being exempted, TP documentation must be completed prior to the tax return filing deadline for the YA.
- It is noteworthy that exemption from preparing comprehensive TP documentation does not exempt taxpayers from IRAS scrutiny. Hence, maintaining adequate records is essential to ensure preparedness for any inquiries or audits conducted by the IRAS.

- For non-residents, a flat 24% is usually due on Singapore source income. Where employment income is involved then this is the higher of a flat 15% and the progressive resident rates.
- Residence status and income earned in the basis year (preceding year) will be assessed in the year of assessment (YA).

Tax filing deadlines

- The statutory deadline for filing an employee's individual tax return is 15 April (if paper filing) or 18 April (if e-filing) of the year following the YA.
